

"I never shy away from a little sparkle," Batt says of choosing items for his New Orleans home store.

HOME

When not filming Mad Men, Bryan Batt can be found inside his New Orleans interior-design shop Hazelnut. "I love mixing whimsical and serious pieces," he says. "A home should have a sense of humor." Here's some of his quirky fare.

RETRIEVER BOOK ENDS

Rustic and sturdy, "they hold your books up like a good dog should," says Batt. $138; hazelnutneworleans.com

"I could see Betty Draper pouring milk out of these," he says.

CERAMIC OWL PITCHERS

"I love their vintage feel," says Batt, who also uses them as bud vases. $15-$36; hazelnutneworleans.com

TOILE FRAME

Batt designed the store's signature pattern New Orleans Toile "to celebrate the city," he says. $46; hazelnutneworleans.com

Mad Men airs Sunday nights at 10 p.m. EST on AMC.
